

Jennifer L. Kostyu

Partner

Jennifer Kostyu joined the firm in 2010 after ten years of practicing communications law at a prominent international law firm. Ms. Kostyu's clients include wireless companies, international carriers, submarine cable operators, IP telephony service providers, local exchange carriers, and interexchange carriers. She counsels her clients on a broad range of issues, including rulemakings and other proceedings before the Federal Communications Commission and compliance with state and federal regulatory requirements.

Ms. Kostyu also has extensive experience in negotiating and drafting a variety of contractual arrangements governing carriers' relationships with customers and with other carriers, advising clients on mergers and acquisitions, as well as on other business and transactional matters. Ms. Kostyu received a certificate for completing coursework in the field of telecommunications from the Institute for Communications Law Studies at the Columbus School of Law. She also interned during law school with the office of Commissioner Powell at the Federal Communications Commission, the National Association of Broadcasters, and a competitive local exchange carrier.
