

Mitchell H. Stabbe

Partner

Mitchell Stabbe has over thirty years of experience in virtually all aspects of trademark law. Over the course of his career, Mitch has experienced numerous changes in trademark law and in technology, with the former often several steps behind the latter. Today, his practice focuses on the ever-evolving interplay between trademarks and the Internet. Over the last few years, for example, Mitch has regularly advised clients and provided comments to ICANN concerning the roll-out of hundreds of new generic top level domains (gTLDs) and the protections available to brand owners against cybersquatting and other domain name abuses.

Mitch also counsels clients on the availability and registration of trademarks and service marks and has prosecuted over a thousand applications before the US Patent and Trademark Office. He also is experienced in drafting and negotiating contracts, licenses, assignments and security interests involving intellectual property rights.

Mitch has litigated numerous trademark and copyright infringement and unfair competition civil actions in federal court, including actions against infringers and gray market importers, as well as adversary proceedings in federal court and before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board (TTAB). In addition, he has successfully prosecuted over fifty claims under the Uniform Dispute Resolution Policy (UDRP) to compel the transfer of domain names registered in bad faith.

He has represented companies from a wide array of industries, including communications, media, publishing, technology, education, not-for-profit associations, real estate leasing, banking, and premium cigars.

Since 1997, Mitch has been rated AV Preeminent by Martindale-Hubbell as well as being ranked one of Washington D.C.'s and Baltimore's Top Rated Lawyers. Mitch was named as a WTR 1000 Leading Trademark Practitioner for the last four years.

Some of Mitch's representative experiences include the following:

- Defeated a trademark claim made against a US e-commerce client by a Canadian company with the same name which argued that the US company's online app for its customers should be removed from iTunes
- On behalf of a national trade association, Mitch drafted comments on the proposals by ICANN for trademark protection mechanisms in the new gTLD program
- Defended a trademark infringement claim in federal court brought against a regional cable company after it adopted a new name that matched the second level domain name of a company in a different business, but was receiving hundreds of misdirected e-mails each month.
- In less than a week, Mitch recovered the domain name for an educational institution that was in the process of being sold from the webmaster who had registered it in his own name and refused to transfer the domain name unless he was paid $1 million from the sales proceeds.
- On behalf of a small premium cigar manufacturer whose family name is the company's house mark, Mitch obtained a preliminary injunction against a large cigar manufacturer who hired the brother of the client's founder and named a cigar line after him
